Forgiveness Matters

We all need a healthy dose of perspective from time to time. Usually, when we slow down our busy lives, and push pause, God provides an “aha” moment or two. Take a look at this quote from C.S. Lewis, and let it sink in.

“To be a Christian means to forgive the inexcusable because God has forgiven the inexcusable in you.”

Life is too short and God is too big, not to put into practice the Christian “art” and virtue of forgiveness. The great apostle Paul shifted his perspective in his journey from sinner to saint and showcased it in Ephesians 4:32 (AMP):

Be kind and helpful to one another, tender-hearted [compassionate, understanding], forgiving one another [readily and freely], just as God in Christ also forgave you.

“Be Kind... He forgave you”

Whether its self, spouse, kid, family or neighbor, know that forgiveness matters for your walk, for your family, for your witness!

Charles Stanley’s life mantra holds true:

“Obey God and leave the consequences with Him.”

Let’s forgive and move on as God sends returns on this foundational truth to be obeyed.

I’m in... How about you?
